Roosevelt Wants More Ginger In New York State Campaign.

United Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Rushing from his train to his offices at the Outlook today, Colonel Roosevelt sent an "S-O-S" call to all the Republican campaign managers to meet him. Within 20 minutes after his arrival he was listening to reports of State Chairman Prentice and his associates at the Republican State headquarters.

The Colonel was not entirely satisfied. In his shirt sleeves he paced aggressively up and down the room, vigorously waving his arms and emphasizing his remarks.

He made it perfectly plain that the managers must inject more "ginger" into the campaign, an essence he declares is so far lacking.

The Colonel gave the managers a few pointers on strenuosity.

WALTER WELLMAN BEGINS BALLOON TRIP ACROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN AFTER MANY VEXATIOUS DELAYS.

Eight of Them Aboard Big Dirigible Left Atlantic City and Nosed Through the Fog Towards Europe—Undecided Up to Last Moment Whether to Attempt the Flight.

Balloon Sighted Off Long Island Later, Says Wireless—Only Few Witness Hurried Departure of Aeronauts.

United Press Telegram.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—In the big dirigible balloon America, Walter Wellman, explorer and author; Melvin Vaniman, the noted engineer, and a crew of six, including a wireless operator, started today their attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean.

Wellman had been arranging the flight for many weeks but the crowd finally lost patience after many vexatious delays had occurred. There were but a few on hand when the big dirigible balloon was brought out of its quarters. After a hurried adjustment of the instruments the balloon was released. The dense fog made it hard to see after it was once in the air.

Before starting Wellman stated he did not know whether he would try to cross the ocean or just make a trial flight. After he was in the air the heavy dirigible swept seaward with propellers working at top speed. Wellman then signalled that the European trip was on.

When the news was broadcasted through the resort everyone rushed to the Boardwalk to get a glimpse through the fog. The Marconi pier station was besieged by a crowd for news of the progress.

The last view of the balloon was by the crew of the yacht Olive, property of Col. Thomas Potter, one of Wellman's backers. The yacht followed the balloon to sea. When the vessel returned to the shore it reported the last word from the balloon was that the propellers were not working properly.

At 11 o'clock the wireless station received word that a steamer had sighted the balloon off Long Island.

The first wireless from the dirigible said: "Headed northeast, all well on board and machinery working fine."

Shortly After Funeral Relative Claims Body Which Is Exhumed.

Special to The Courier.

ROCKWOOD, Oct. 15.—After holding the body for some days after it was received by him and receiving no word from relatives, Undertaker Jacob Snyder yesterday interred the body of Martin Griffith in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at this place. A few hours later a nephew of Griffith's appeared to claim the remains.

There was nothing left for the undertaker to do but exhume the body. Last night the grave diggers went to the cemetery and took up the casket. It was placed in another rough box and shipped to McKeesport for interment there.

Griffith was killed a few days ago on the Baltimore & Ohio tracks between Rockwood and the McSpadden quarry, where the victim was employed.

PRELIMINARY PLANS LAID FOR HALLOWE'EN PARADE.

Burgess J. L. Evans Appoints Committees at Meeting Held for Purpose Last Evening.

WILL SOLICIT CASH GIFTS

Over Hundred Dollars Necessary to Finance Proposition All of Which Will Go For Red Fire and Eats. Last Year to Be Outdone.

An enthusiastic meeting was held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms for the purpose of arranging plans for an organized observance of Hallowe'en again this year and the idea that was born here last year and executed on a minor scale will be elaborated upon. The parade is held for the purpose of giving ample amusement for all and to act as a check upon acts of vandalism the past. The result of last year's trial were more than satisfactory.

There was less damage to property and fewer abuses of "chalk night" and "corn night" last year than ever before. Burgess Evans will strictly prohibit both of these evenings being observed in the usual manner. The police will be given strict instructions to arrest anyone caught marking with chalk or throwing corn. As a recompense, the lid will be off Hallowe'en to those who care to celebrate in a sane and harmless manner.

It was decided to hold the parade on Monday evening rather than Saturday. This was deemed the wisest course. Every property owner, the committee believes, can well afford to donate liberally towards the celebration because it brings the celebrants under control and supervision whereas under former circumstances there was any end to vandalism.

The plans in general were discussed at length last evening and committees appointed. The details will be worked out later. The money subscribed will be used for two purposes only, to purchase an abundance of red fire for the youngsters to carry and a liberal allowance of apples and doughnuts for consumption after the parade. This same plan was followed successfully last year but the amounts of red fire and eats proved insufficient.

Prizes for the most unique costumes will be offered in the various classes. This matter was left up to Chairman M. B. Pryce and his committee, composed of J. G. Gorman, F. R. Graham, A. W. Bishop, W. N. Leche, Frank Sweeney and C. A. Brill. The funds left over from the merchants' picnic at Kennywood will fill the prize list, which will be announced later. The question of entables was left up to Secretary F. L. Chase of the Y. M. C. A. and J. Lawrence Schick, who will appoint their assistants. The red fire will be purchased by H. O. Kenagy, W. S. Stimmell and G. S. Connell.

The parade will take the greatest amount of work, aside from the onerous duties imposed on the Finance Committee. The parade is in the hands of a committee composed of Borough Superintendent W. S. Deffenbaugh, High School Principal Bruce U. P. Colbaugh, Ward Principals F. W. Jones, George H. Bell, Homer C. Wright and F. R. Yoder, Rev. Father J. T. Burns and Rev. William Merz of the parochial schools, Attorneys E. F. Younkin and H. George Imy, former yielders of the birch and rule, Captain A. R. Kidd of the soldiery, C. H. Dalsley, F. H. Harmening and J. G. Gorman, general enthusiasts, and W. S. Stimmell and George S. Connell, press agents. This committee will meet next week to outline the situation. It has the authority to decide on the line of march, the post will occupy and the other details.

There promises to be plenty of music. M. B. Pryce, F. L. Chase and J. L. Schick were given that end of the work. A large number of the Tenth Regiment band boys will be in line, the West Side band and the Italian bands will be asked to contribute to the cause, while a couple of drum corps and the Y. M. C. A. bands will turn out.

The task of raising the long green with which to buy the red fire and the grub was left to Burgess J. L. Evans with F. R. Graham, Robert Norris and W. D. McGinnis as assistant canvassers. The success of the affair depends largely upon the quantity of red fire the youngsters can burn and the doughnuts they can eat afterwards.

The parade will not be confined to the school children and every effort will be made to get the older ones out. There is no age limit. There will be sufficient prizes to make it worth while for some of the old youngsters to show off.

Stanley Ketchel Shot Through the Lung and May Die

United Press Telegram.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 15.—Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, was shot through the right lung by a man named Hurd at the ranch of R. P. Dickerson, five miles from Conway, Mo., today. He may die.

Ketchel is said to have quarreled with the man. His assailant is being sought by a posse of Ketchel's friends. The fighter was Dickerson's guest on a hunting and fishing expedition. He had just assumed the Presidency of a big lumber company in which Dickerson is interested.

TO BUY BRIDGE.

Viewers Pass Favorably on Springfield Township Span.

After viewing White bridge on the road to Somerset in Springfield township yesterday, recommendation was made that the property be purchased by the county. Damages were set at $1,949.

Accompanied by the Commissioners, and the following, who were appointed viewers by the court, H. B. Gans of Uniontown; Herbert Frisbee and Attorney Fred D. Munson, of this city, an inspection was made of the structure, and a favorable report made. The bridge, built of concrete and steel, was erected and is owned by the York ridge Company and was only put up during the latter part of 1910.

As soon as the court has approved of the sale, the county will likely take possession of the property.

SUIT IS ENDED.

Borough Pays for Fire Wagon and Case Is Withdrawn.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 15—A case that has dragged through the courts for the past three years was ended today, when Charles M. Richardson, for the Combination Ladder Company, of Hartford, Conn., received a check for $3,225.52 from the Borough of Connellsville.

Suit was entered in January, 1908, and did not go to a jury for over a year. A verdict was found in favor of the plaintiff for $2,857.89.

DEAL FOR CHURCH FALLS THROUGH; PRICE TOO HIGH.

New York Firm Offered $60,000 But This Was Rejected by Presbyterians.

The Presbyterian Church will not be sold, not because the Board of Trustees refuse to sell, but because the people who secured a four months option on the property do not think the investment would be a profitable one.

A local business man and a well known New York firm were granted an option for the church property on June 13th, at $66,000. Even situated as the site is, on West Main street in the heart of the business section, the amount asked was considered large, but the church people are not anxious to sell and say they will not dispose of their holdings less than the price named.

A week ago the board was notified that the property could not be accepted at their price, and a proposition was made of $60,000. At the regular monthly meeting of the board on Friday afternoon, in the office of Attorney H. George May in the Title & Trust building, the offer was refused and plans drawn for extensive improvements on the church.

President Thomas J. Hooper, of the board stated today that the option allowed to expire is the only one made to the church, outside of an offer of $50,000 made by a local business man six years ago. It was the intention of the New York firm to put up a four or five story modern, brick, fireproof building for mercantile purposes. There were to have been two large store rooms on the main floor and offices and flats above. It was proposed to put from $40,000 to $48,000 into the project. After much figuring and planning, including the cost of tearing down the church the idea was finally rejected.

During July and two or three times before that, the New York firm sent representatives to Connellsville for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not this city was a good business proposition. It is said they stood for two hours on the Yough bridge and at "Brimstone Corner" counting the number of people who passed by. Their report was favorable.

The Stahl Plumbing Company secured the contract at the Friday meeting for installing a new heating apparatus under the chapel of the church.

President Hooper stated today that as it is certain the property will not be sold for the present, many improvements are planned, work on which will be taken up within a month. The organ is to be remodeled and made practically new.

Hospital Is Reopened.

After being closed for the past several weeks while better lighting facilities were provided and a new room built, the South Side Private hospital has been reopened.

BUILDERS ARE BUSY JUST NOW.

Residence of J. S. Jenks Embodies Many New Features.

IS IN EAST PARK ADDITION

New Residence of Postmaster A. E. Kurtz Will be Ready For Occupancy Within Next Two Weeks—Soon Finish Dr. R. S. McKee's Home.

The new home of J. S. Jenks, Superintendent of Transmission of the West Penn, which the Connellsville Construction Company is at present engaged in erecting in the East Park addition, will be decidedly different from any of the modern homes in this city. When completed the building will have cost over $7,000. The site is located on Wills Road adjoining the Baptist Church manse.

Work was started on the foundation two weeks ago and is now ready for the brick work. D. F. Girard has secured the contract for this part. To begin with, the frame of the house will be erected and covered with ⅞ inch sheathing boards. Over this will be laid linofet, something never before being used for this purpose here. The boarding is usually covered with buckskin building paper, an ordinary brown paper.

Linofet is over a half inch in thickness and is used principally for lining ice boxes. Between this and the brick work, will be an air course 1⅝ inches wide. The outside walls will be of white pressed brick. Colonial style of architecture will be used in the building throughout. It is not expected to complete the home before March 1, 1911. Among the other improvements to be installed will be a garbage furnace and complete washer system.

The new home of Postmaster A. E. Kurtz on West Green street will be finished in two weeks, by the same company. All of the work is completed but a few minor details.

An accident in Baltimore has held up the work on the new First National Bank building in New Salem which the Connellsville Construction Company is erecting. About $16,000 is being spent on the building, which is half completed. Cut stone, brick and terra cotta are being used, and it was the latter that has delayed progress on the building. While making a special order for the New Salem bank, one of the walls of the kiln collapsed. When the oven was opened the damage was discovered, which has resulted in a loss of over $1,000 to the Baltimore manufacturers. This accident happened a month ago.

The same firm is also putting up the new home of Dr. R. S. McKee on Ninth street, West Side, and will complete the work in about 40 days. Plasterers yesterday finished their part of the building.

New Typhoid Case.

Another case of typhoid fever has developed at the home of John Falcone on North Eighth street, West Side, making the third case of fever in the family. A small daughter, aged about four years, was taken ill a few days ago.

Trolley Car Overturns.

A Northern Ohio traction car bound from Akron to Canton overturned at Uniontown, O., 15 miles north of Canton yesterday. Herbert Miller of Massillon and Tracy Kagle of Canton sustained serious injuries. Six other passengers were cut and bruised.

Fair and Cooler.

Generally fair tonight and Sunday, cooler tonight, is the noon weather forecast.

ROUNDHOUSE AND SHOPS FOR NORTH EIGHTH STREET.

Reported Western Maryland Has This End in View. Balks at Prices.

It is reported on good authority that the activity of the Western Maryland real estate agents north of Main street on the West Side is with the view to securing sufficient ground to establish its roundhouse and shops in that locality. It is said that these will be located in the flat along North Eighth street.

This information came from an apparently reliable source and is believed to be correct. Practically all the properties in that section are under option and some of them have already been taken over by the new railroad.

There is another rumor to effect that a number of options have been permitted to go by default because the price asked was too high. Those familiar with the situation predict that wholesale condemnation proceedings may be entered in case the railroad cannot purchase property at a reasonable figure.

George Smith Held for Court; Hit Geo. Keen

George Smith, a colored man employed at a local eating house, was arrested yesterday by Constable Russell Stillwagon for assault and battery and was held for court at the hearing last evening before Justice of the Peace W. P. Clark. George S. Keen, an employe at Sligo, the prosecutor had his teeth knocked loose and a lump raised on his cheek when Smith let his fist loose in a Water street hotel on Thursday.

The defendant approached Keen and charged him with holding his wife up at the water tank near the Association grounds. Before the man could answer, Smith struck him. He says he used his open hand, and slapped, but the looks of Keen discredited his defense.

Smith furnished $30 bail for his release. He claims the alleged holdup occurred on October 12.

Wants Big Board Bill.

Robert Hoke of Bullskin township has sued to recover $1,511.12 he claims is due for boarding Fayette Brothers for 15 years. He claims to have had a contract with Brothers for the payment of $2.50 a week for board but Administrator W. L. Leeper refuses to settle.

Executors Are Sued.

C. W. Sailor of Ohiopyle entered suit yesterday against Kisiah Holt, H. T. Holt and Robert Holt, executors of the est J. W. Holt to recover $149.61 alleged to be due on an account.

BOOM AT LIBERTY.

Demand There For Residence Lots Since Railroad Began Extensions.

There is a boom in building lots at Liberty, above the hill from Dickerson Run, since the Pittsburg & Lake Erie began extending its Dickerson Run yards.

New homes have already been built by Mrs. James Dougherty, Clarence Lint and Edward Lewis while P. G. Smith, William Evans and Dr. Snyder have dwellings in course of erection.

Rohm Declares Slaughter Plant Is Very Clean

M. J. Rohm of the West Side stated to The Courier this morning that his slaughtering plant on the West Side is absolutely clean and that there is no danger of infection from it. During the summer months the refuse is removed every day and three times a week in cold weather.

Nothing but waste water and fresh blood is permitted to go into the sewer which empties into the river. Rohm further states that while the sewer from this place goes down to the water, other borough sewers are above the banks and in low water the refuse and filth is permitted to collect along them. Rohm declares that if there is danger from the intake to the cold storage and ice plant, there should be a filter bed at the mouth of the pipe instead of merely a screen.

Tuberculosis Exhibit Here This Month

The State Health Department will give its tuberculosis exhibit in the Y. M. C. A. assembly hall here October 25, 26 and 27. Arrangements are being made by Dr. T. B. Echard, the local representative of the State Department, to have lectures and stereopticon views in the evening.

The State has maintained a free tuberculosis dispensary here in charge of Dr. Echard for the past couple of years.

Under Pittsburg Office.

The Sharon works of the American Steel & Wire Company has been transferred to the jurisdiction of the Pittsburg district. Headquarters were formerly at Cleveland.

Train Crews Arrested.

Baltimore & Ohio train crews under Conductors P. W. Dalen and Joe Coughenour will be arrested for blocking crossings in Uniontown yesterday.

Baltimore & Ohio Formally Settles Strike of Machinists.

The long pending disagreement between the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company and certain of its machinists over rules and regulations governing the work in shops has been virtually settled by the agreement which, it is officially announced, has been reached between General Superintendent of Motive Power Harris, and Attorney Mitchell, representing the men. This is now in course of ratification by the machinists of the different localities where the shops are located. Baltimore & Ohio officials are assured that the whole matter will be closed up within the next five days.

At some of the localities where action has already been taken it was unanimously in favor of acceptance. The basis of the agreement is fundamentally the same as was offered by the railroad company months ago which was the taking back of the men as individuals, subject to existing shop rules and regulations and without prejudice as to insurance and pension privileges. The agreement now finally perfected is the same with added insurance that the number of men to be taken back within given periods is definitely specified.

The settlement embraces the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern as well as the Baltimore & Ohio railroad proper.

Splendid Program Arranged For Entertainment of the Veterans.

A busy time is promised the veterans who attend the reunion of the Seventh Pennsylvania Cavalry here October 25, 26 and 27, but a most enjoyable one it will be. Two days are filled with lots of doings while the third will be limited to trolley rides and farewell greetings.

The program for Thursday, the first day of the reunion, provides for the registering of members at the Wyman Hotel, where the headquarters are located. From 6 until 7 in the evening supper will be served in the dining room of the Christian Church. Beginning at 7.30 the camp fire will be held at the Carnegie Free Library, at which time the following program will be observed:

Address of welcome, Burgess J. L. Evans; Response, Comrade Snyder of Company H.; History of the Regiment, Colonel Greno; Recitation, Miss Marie Benford; Fayette County's Loyalty to the Union, Captain B. Dunn; Music by daughter of the Regiment; Miss Claire Dollinger of Pittsburg; "Grand Paw" and "That Boy of Mine," J. R. Baisley; Recitation, Miss Margaret Brennan; "Tenting on the old Camp Ground," Mrs. F. O. Goodwin. Short addresses by ministers and others.

Wednesday the business meeting will be held at 8.30 in the Carnegie hall. At 10.15 the veterans and friends will leave for Fairview Farm, where they will picnic.

Thursday is limited to the trolley rides and bidding comrades good bye.

HUBBS NICKELS FIRES SHOT AT CASH GRIM IN SCOTTDALE.

Manager of Bowling Alley Was Human Target But Fortunately Bullet Did Not Take Effect.

A BIG CROWD IN DANGER

Nickels Runs Restaurant Department and in Clash With Manager Says He Shot In Self Defense—Nickels Under $1,000 Bail.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 15.—Hubbs Nickels, who conducts the restaurant end of the Peerless bowling alleys on Pittsburg street, is under $1,000 bail charged with felonious shooting with intent to kill. Cash Grim, the manager of the place, is the one that was the target for one shot from Nickels' 38 calibre revolver, fired when the place was crowded after supper last evening. Grim avoided death by throwing himself down behind a show case. The bullet that was fired struck a stove and glanced off, imbedding itself in the woodwork of the wall, from where curio hunters dug pieces of it last night.

The place emptied suddenly when the revolver practise began and men in the barber chairs, with towels about their necks and their faces covered with lather, hurriedly followed the barbers to the street. Others jumped out of windows, slid under pool tables or crowded out of the doors. No one knew but what several shots were going to be fired after the first one. Seeing Grim drop, Nickels walked behind the lunch counter, put his gun back in the drawer from when he had taken it, and started for the rear of the long building, where Policeman Austin Hyde arrested him. Nickels accompanied the officer to the borough building without protest, but later wished to enter an information against Grim.

The latter appeared before Justice of the Peace J. C. Steiner and charged Nickels with felonious shooting with intent to kill. Grim was within arms length almost of the gun that Nickels fired with. The latter says that Grim attacked him and he was getting the worst of it, and fired in self defense. Some who saw the affair say that Grim had called Nickels down for not keeping the lights clean in his part of the place, that Nickels answered warmly and Grim grabbed him.

The affair created great excitement and caused much talk last night as the place was well filled at the time and the principals are well known in town, where both have been residents several years.

Water Company Officials Here; Not After Germs

E. L. Keene, of the general offices of the American Water & Guarantee Company of Pittsburg, arrived in Connellsville this morning with Bacteriologist G. B. Bunker, of the same had nothing to do with the present controversy in regard to the condition of the Connellsville water supply.

"As far as we know, the water is alright" he said. He referred to the fact that the Board of Health are going to have samples analyzed, and said that was up to them. "As far as we are concerned there is no controversy," he added.

Superintendent J. David Stillwagon of the local office secured a rig and drove the party to the Breakneck reservoir this morning, and insisted the trip was only to inspect certain improvements being made on the spillway. H. E. Watt, of the Pittsburg office, who has been in this city for the past few days, engaged in general work, was a fourth party on today's trip. "Only our routine work," said Stillwagon when asked about the trip.

Explosion at Steubenville.

An explosion at the LaBelle Iron Works furnace at Steubenville last evening caused boiling water and steam to envelop four workmen, two of whom will die.

SOCIETY.

Surprise Party.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Korfoot on East Main street was the scene of a cleverly arranged surprise party tendered Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Carroll last evening in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary. Various amusements, including five tables of euchre, were indulged in. The ladies' prize, a cut glass cracker jar, was won by Miss Lina McLaughlin, while the gentleman's prize, a smoking set, was won by D. J. Carroll. The booby prize was won by Miss Edna Riley.

At 11.30 o'clock the guests adjourned to the dining room where a prettily appointed supper was served. Covers were laid for 40. The centerpiece was a basket of carnations while smilax was arranged from the chandelier to the four corners of the table. Mrs. Korfott had as her aides Mrs. George Woods, Mrs. E. White and Mrs. A. Parry. The out of town guests were Mrs. J. D. Thorndell, Mrs. George McDonald and daughter, Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorndell, Wheeling, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Tyson, McKeesport; William and Charles Roudabush, Harrisburg, Lina McLaughlin, Greensburg; Mr. and Mrs. Ruse, Miss Bernice Hall, Frank Lane, Mt. Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Miss Riley, Scottdale; Mr. and Mrs. Weltner and daughter, Mr. McHaney, Uniontown, and D. W. Prugh, Youngwood. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll received a number of pretty and useful presents.

Pocahontas Meeting.

Tintah Council No. 120, Degree of Pocahontas, held its regular meeting Thursday night in Markell hall. There was a large attendance and the meeting was a very enthusiastic one. During the business meeting the following officers were installed for the ensuing year:

Prophetess, Nora E. Myer; Pocahontas, Minnie Means; Wenonn, Laura B. Tressler; Powhatan, James E. Martin. The installing officer was Deputy Pocahontas Laura B. Whipkey of Dawson.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a very entertaining program was rendered. Piano solos by Ethel Wills and recitations by Mildren Daniels and Annabelle Lee were deserving of special mention. Refreshments followed. Oniska Council of Dawson was present. Guests were also present from Scottdale, Dunbar, Fairchance and Mt. Pleasant. The next meeting will be held Thursday evening, October 27, at which time a class of 15 will be initiated.

Dr. Donehoo Will Talk.

Monday evening at 8 o'clock at a public meeting to be held at the Carnegie Free Library by the Woman's Culture Club, Dr. G. P. Donehoo will lecture on "The Migration of the Delaware and Shawnee Indians from the Susquehanna river up the Ohio river." The meeting promises to be of interest and an invitation is extended to all who desire to attend.

Entertains Ladies' Aid.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist Church was pleasantly entertained last evening by Rev. and Mrs. E. A. E. Palmquist at the Manse in Will's road. The meeting was the semi-monthly one and was largely attended. Following the business meeting Mrs. Palmquist read a very interesting and entertaining selection.

The visitors were Miss Mary Lytle of Juniataville, Mrs. George Tennant of Frostburg, Md., and Mrs. Hess of Trotter. Dainty refreshments were served.

Cards for Wedding.

Cards have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Weniger, Sr., of Shady Side, Pittsburg, announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helena Weniger and Cephas D. Chamberlain of Brownsville. The ceremony was solemnized Monday evening, October 10, at the home of the bride's parents. After an extended wedding tour in the east Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain will be at home at Brownsville on November 10.

Off For Scranton.

Miss Harriet Clark will go to Pittsburg this afternoon where she will be joined by delegates who will leave on Monday to attend the convention of the State Federation of Women's Club to be held at Scranton.

Miss Clark was elected delegate to the convention at the last meeting of the Women's Culture Club. Beginning Tuesday, the convention will be in session four days. Scottdale will also send a representative.

C. E. Meets.

The monthly meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Methodist Protestant Church was held last evening at the home of Miss Martha Babbage on South Eighth street, West Side. Many members were present and business of a routine nature was transacted. A social hour and refreshments followed.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. S. D. Sipe was hostess at a delightful children's party yesterday afternoon at her home on East Cedar avenue in honor of the tenth birthday anniversary of her son, Harold. About 30 children were present and spent a most enjoyable afternoon at various games. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations as well as in the luncheon. The small guests were conveyed to their respective homes in Mr. Sipe's automobile.

Notice Edna Rebekahs.

All Rebekahs and Odd Fellows are requested to bring their donations for the Ben Avon Home Tuesday evening, October 18, to Odd Fellows' hall.

Cornerstone Laid.

The cornerstone of the new Methodist Episcopal Church was laid at Fairmont yesterday.

Fifty Years Ago Today. Oct. 15.

Iroquois Will Initiate 15 New Members Tuesday

The Order of The Iroquois will initiate a class of at least 15 new members next Tuesday evening in the Moose hall under the direction of Deputy Supreme Organizer J. H. Boring. This is the first time since the Iroquois lodge was instituted here 10 years ago that an organizer has been in the field. It is a fraternal insurance order. The officers are President Harry Jennings, Secretary C. B. McCormick, Treasurer R. J. Welch and Collector George B. Brown. These four compose the executive committee.

Since the lodge was organized here about $12,000 in death benefits has been paid out. The members who have died, and whose families received benefits, were J. A. Zimmerman, W. A. Davidson, Jerome K. Skiles, W. H. Brown and Joseph I. Sedersky.

Organizer Boring has been here for the past couple of weeks and has enlisted a number of young men. He is a very efficient organizer.

YOU LOOK OLD.

In nine cases out of ten it is not because you are old, but because you are tired, all worn out, and you act as if you just wondered how you are going to get through the season and do your work.

This condition may be caused by a run-down and debilitated condition, or by a bad cold which has left you without strength or ambition.

We want to ask every such person to try Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil. If it does not build you up and make you feel young, strong and well again, we will return the money you paid us for it. Isn't that fair? Graham & Company, druggists, Connellsville, Pa.

FIRES LIGHTED IN NEW MILL.

When Operated in Full Will Employ 350 Men.

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 15.—Operation of the new $3,000,000 open hearth steel mill of the Forged Steel Wheel Company, subsidiary of the Standard Steel Car Company at Lyndora, was started yesterday when casts were made in furnaces Nos. 5 and 6 and the slabs rolled in the new slab mill in connection.

The old plant is being enlarged to afford a capacity of 1,000 wheels a day and will not be ready for complete operations for a month or more. The new mill, when operated in full, will employ 350 men. There are six furnaces with a capacity of 50 tons each.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites, destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market today.

Mitchell Will Quit Embalming Become Merchant

Charles C. Mitchell has resigned as funeral director for Morris & Company to assist his father-in-law, D. K. Artman, in looking after his West Main street business. Mr. Artman has been in poor health for some time past and as the result is unable to pay the attention to his business that he should.

Mr. Mitchell has been with Morris & Company for the past 15 years and was considered one of the best funeral directors in Western Pennsylvania. He has a wide circle of friends who wish him success in his new line of business. His resignation will take effect November 1. As yet his successor has not been decided upon.

RAPID AT ROYAL.

Work Forging Ahead Rapidly on the Mitchell Type Ovens.

The Royal plant of the Rainey interests is fast rounding into shape and the work is being pushed briskly. All the ovens are of the Mitchell rectangular type. At present there are two blocks of these ovens in operation and another will be built. These two blocks are only six or eight feet apart. The pushing machines work between them and the loaders are operated on the outside. The third block will be beside the two already in operation and will be operated in practically the same manner.

The huge concrete tipple at this place is among the best in the region and is well equipped. Electric larries are used. The boilers of the plant are fired by an automatic feeder. The coal is in a bin over the boilers and when the steam gets below a certain point coal is automatically fed into the furnaces. Water is injected into the boilers in a similar manner.

Tenement houses, shops and various other buildings are being erected and when this plant is once completed it will be one of the finest and best equipped plants in the region.

The Royal plant is located on the P. V. & C. division of the Pennsylvania railroad on a branch line off the main line near Grindstone and just above the Colonial works.

EVEN CURES ULCERS.

Remarkable Results From Skin Remedy That Costs Almost Nothing.

No matter how bad a sore or ulcer afflicts you, it is said that Hokara, the pure skin food, will cure it. In fact, if it doesn't cure, the purchase price will be refunded.

A. A. Clarke the local agent for Hokara, who has sold hundreds of packages the last few weeks says he has yet to find any form of wound or disease affecting the skin that Hokara does not heal, and its relief is so instantaneous that those who try it are simply delighted with it.

Pimples, eczema, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, and all skin troubles barber's itch, and all skin troubles are quickly cured by applying this simple skin food and tissue builder. It contains no grease or acids, and is cleanly to use.

A. A. Clarke sells a liberal jar of Hokara at the low price of 25c.

Tonsiline Cures Sore Throat

The throat is one of the most delicate parts of the body. It is also one of the most important, and should be given the best possible care.

The throat is the gateway to the body. The air we breathe, the food we eat, the liquids we drink, all pass through it. It is very easily affected by cold, strain, exposure, etc., and Sore Throat is therefore one of our most common ailments. Strangely enough, it is also one of the most neglected.

Sore Throat is a very serious matter, for the whole system is in danger in consequence of it.

Every Sore Throat patient is a candidate for Tonsilitis, Quinsy, Diphtheria and other serious or fatal diseases, all of which can be prevented by the timely cure of the Sore Throat by the use of TONSILINE.

If taken in time a dose or two will do it.

TONSILINE is made to cure throat diseases and nothing else. It is the one remedy for this purpose held largely in the United States. Every user endorses it; every physician, knowing its virtues, commends it.

The one most important thing to remember about TONSILINE is the fact that it really does cure Sore Throat.

and gently reared, women will find in all the seasons of their lives, as maidens, wives and mothers, that the one simple, wholesome laxative remedy, which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally and which may be taken at any time, when the system needs a laxative, with perfect safety and really beneficial effects, is Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

It has that true delicacy of flavor which is so refreshing to the taste, that warming and grateful toning to the stomach which responds so favorably to its action and the laxative effect which is so beneficial to the system when, occasionally, its gentle cleansing is required.

The genuine, always bearing the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., may be purchased from all leading druggists in original packages of one size only, price fifty cents per bottle.

You Can Work Near a Window

in winter when you have a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a portable radiator which can be moved to any part of a room, or to any room in a house. When you have a

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

GIRL SNATCHED FROM DEATH

Locomotive Fireman, on Pilot, Lifts Little One Clear of Tracks.

Washington, C. H., O., Oct. 15.—A rescue of a little girl from death under a freight train on the D. T. and I railroad at Harris station was made by J. Everett, a fireman. Everett saw the child playing on the track. He ran along the side of the engine and was soon on the pilot.

He swung himself forward, reaching an arm toward the child so that he could seize her dress. Everett made an accurate estimate and, grasping the child, he held her aloft. The girl suffered only a scratch on her cheek.

THE WISDOM OF STABLE STEEL AND COKE PRICES.

The steel manufacturers are advancing some trade policies which might be considered by the Connellsville coke producers with interest, not to say with profit.

At the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, now in session in New York, Judge Gary, the head of the United States Steel Corporation, made a strong plea for the adoption of a common policy looking toward stability of steel prices and their maintenance at reasonable levels by the regulation of supply to demand. He advocated a reduction of output rather than a reduction of prices at times when consumers are not willing to pay reasonable prices. We infer that he also opposes unreasonably high prices when demand is brisk and consumers are forced under pressure to pay extravagant prices; and we draw this inference not only because it is a reasonable deduction, but also because it has been and is the established policy of the United States Steel Corporation.

The sentiment will have the approval of all thinking people. It is better for the country that steel prices should be stable and reasonable than that there should be violent fluctuations. The manufacture of steel has become one of the leading national industries. Its condition is reflected in innumerable other lines of business and has a far-reaching influence on the wages of labor. It is infinitely better that labor should have steady employment at fair wages, and that trade generally should be steadily and reasonably prosperous, than that either should eat cake one day and be compelled to live on crusts the next.

The policy which the steel interests are trying to inaugurate is a good one for the Connellsville coke operators to copy, and if the steel manufacturers can get together there is no reason why the coke operators should not do likewise.

One of the first and most practical steps in this direction will be the successful establishment of the proposed coke selling agency which had progressed well toward completion when it was sidetracked by the hope of a coke merger. The merger is undoubtedly the strongest proposition, but a selling agency is the next best substitute. It will go a long ways toward creating and maintaining that stability of prices which the steel manufacturers now seek without support so efficient.

We commend the selling agency plan to the further consideration of the independent or open market producers of Connellsville coke. They asked too much for coke at the opening of 1910 and they are receiving too little for it at the close of the year. A proper selling agency properly supported would have secured to the Connellsville operators stable prices and better average returns for their commodity; and even in the face of present conditions it will have a strengthening effect upon the market.

It is certainly worth a trial, and we know of no reason why it it not good policy on the part of every operator of consequence to enter into the pool and give the agency cordial support.

THE DEMOCRATIC POLICY OF DIVERSION.

According to the Uniontown Genius, the editor of this paper is in a very bad state. The other day we were hungry and heart-broken; now, we are hysterical with fright and wet with tears over the certainty of Republican defeat. The imagination of our Democratic-this-year contemporary is unusually vivid.

The Genius, however, is only sticking to the Democratic text. It is the policy of that organization to divert attention from the real issues of the campaign. The closest it comes to joining issue with The Courier is when it declares in terms more emphatic than politic that we lie when we say that the Connellsville coke region did not prosper under the Wilson Tariff bill. We will refer this matter to the people who lived in this region from 1892 to 1896. It was, in the language of honest but mistaken Grover Cleveland, a condition, not a theory, which confronted us; and the condition was sad, indeed. It did more to make Republicans than any other action of the Democratic party when last in power.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness," The Genius says. We fear the prophet of Fayette county Democracy does not follow his own precepts very closely. He was here in the four years following Cleveland's second inauguration. He knows that we have stated nothing but the truth, and everybody else who was here at that time knows it. They know it so well that they have been careful ever since not to invite a repetition of it.

The fire wagon is paid for, but it has cost the taxpayers $3,300 instead of $2,500. Under a city government such folly will be impossible.

It is announced that street improvements this year will have to be passed up. The borough funds will have to be devoted to paying debts contracted by former Town Councils. Every Town Council should pay its own way. Under third class city government this is a necessity. The fact in itself is a strong argument in favor of that form of government for Connellsville. In the light of experience, we may well question the statement that city government is more expensive than borough government. The difference between theory and practise is sometimes very pronounced.

THE NEWS OF THE MILL TOWN.

Mine Foreman W. J. Eustis Resigns as Y. M. C. A. Teacher.

HEALTH OFFICER PAYS VISIT

J. Frank Evans Investigating Epidemic of Whooping Cough—No White Wing is Yet Secured—Other Items of Interest.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 15.—The Young Men's Christian Association educational department has lost its instructor in mining and Secretary W. J. Graef is now looking for another to take his place. This comes about by Mine Foreman W. J. Eustis of Alverton leaving the mines there to go to Latrobe to become the mine foreman for the Latrobe Coal & oke Company. Mr. Eustis has been an excellent teacher in the night classes and his departure will be greatly regretted. James McMaster of Carpentertown will come to Alverton to take the place made vacant by Mr. Eustis' resignation.

Horse Fell in Street.

One of the horses hitched in a cab belonging to Liveryman Evans of Connellsville, it is said, created some excitement at the corner of Pittsburg street and Broadway yesterday afternoon, after the James Woods funeral at Owensdale. The team was coming down Broadway and when in front of the New Scottdale House one horse slipped and fell heavily on the paved street. Several men got it up and straightened the harness. The horse was bruised by the fall, and one shoulder was raw and galled.

Health Officer Here.

J. Frank Evans, the State Health Officer of East Huntingdon township, was down from Ruffsdale yesterday making an examination of the White school locality. Several cases of whooping cough are said to be in the school there. The State takes much better care of such things than used to be the fashion and so investigated. There is some diptheria in the township, too, and the township and borough health officers are working together to prevent any spread of the disease.

Candidate Here.

C. S. Shuck, the Monessen newspaper man, who is on the Republican Assembly ticket, spent yesterday here interviewing the voters, in company with Dr. E. P. Weddell a Scottdale candidate. Besides hustling around town they made some trips into the country via automobile.

Jacobs Creek Services.

Rev. P. O. Wagner, the new minister assigned to the Alverton charge in place of Rev. Archibald Auld, who was sent to Masontown, will preach his introductory sermon at the Jacobs Creek Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and will preach at Alverton at 7.30 in the evening.

No White Wing Yet.

Another week and more has rolled around and there is neither sign or promise of the long looked for White Wing that was to be put on Pittsburg street with a little cart and a broom to clear up that thoroughfare daily. It will soon be winter and then people will think that it will be impossible to clean. Meanwhile the dust and the flies are having a picnic poisoning people's provender.

Poultry Meeting Held.

The Scottdale Poultry and Pet Stock Association met at Justice of the Peace John C. Steiner's office last night. There the main item of interest was the examination of a sample coop for the birds that will be exhibited at the poultry show in December. Enough coops will be bought outright by the association to house 700 birds. This will put the Scottdale association in good shape and the ownership of the coops will insure a greater degree of permanence to the association than if they hired the coops for one show only. The committee that has the securing of a place in which to hold the show were admonished to continue their work with all diligence.

A Big Parade.

A beautiful scene occurred last evening when a brigade of 100 young girls led by Evangelist Davis gathered at the Presbyterian Church and marched down town to the corner of Broadway and Pittsburg streets where the evangelistic choir under the direction of Mr. Mills had gathered. The choir, brigade and the crowd which had been attracted, then formed in line and marched to the Presbyterian Church which was speedily filled to its capacity. Among the selections sung by the choir, "O What a Change," and was sung with splendid effect. Evangelist Davis conducted a lively Scripture exercise. A large number of the audience responded with quotations. Mr. Mills' solo, "My Pilot," was impressive, the improvised accompaniment of Mr. Carr the pianist, suggesting the sentiment of the song.

Evangelist Davis preached on the subject "The Worst Thing and the Best Thing in the World." He said in part: "The worst thing in the world is the wages of sin which is death. The best thing in the world is eternal life. Sin is a terrible thing in its nature and its effects. It is terrible to have sin about you but it is more terrible when it gets into your own heart and life. It costs to sin. Some say it is hard to be a Christian but I say it is harder not to be a Christian. 'If you don't believe it go into a drunkard's home and see what sin does for him and his family. Sin brings sorrow here and hell hereafter. It costs too much to be lost and I'll not pay the price.'

In response to the evangelist's invitation a large number expressed a desire to become Christians. The meeting closed with a rapid fire testimony meeting in which a large number took part, 126 of the testimonies being given in three minutes.

Sunday afternoon at 2.30 Evangelist Davis will address the men on "True Manhood and How to Obtain It," which is considered by many better than the one given last Sunday.

The Night School.

The regular night school work which the Scottdale Y. M. C. A. has been carrying on so successfully for several years will open for the fall and winter term, Monday, October 24. The branches which are taught in the school are mechanical drawing, mathematics, mining and English. Because of the superior advantages which the Y. M. C. A. has in the matter of expert instructors drawn from among the best of the practical men in their several lines, who are located about Scottdale the work in the past years has been very successful, and the association management are placed in the position where they can supply the opportunity for material advancement to any young man who is ambitious and willing to work.

GOOD WORK BEING DONE ON GIBSON HIGH SCHOOL

New Building Will Soon Be Under Roof at South Connellsville. Is a Fine Structure.

Splendid progress is being made on the new Gibson High School that the Connellsville Township School Board is erecting. The brick work on the structure, under the direction of Contractor D. F. Girard is well along and the building will be under roof within the next few weeks. The general contract was awarded to the South Connellsville Lumber Company, which is making a splendid job.

In appearance the new High School will compare favorably with any of the buildings in this section. The architect laid out the plans along modest, yet pleasing lines. The stone work on the building is particularly well designed and executed.

The new High School is being built beside the Gibson school. The rapid growth of the township schools made its erection a necessity. The board expects to have a course which will compare favorably with the best offered by any township in the county.

NEW STOCK CAR.

Pennsylvania Railroad Now Exhibiting One That is Humane.

To show what it has been doing to develop a "humane" live stock car, the Pennsylvania railroad is making an exhibition at the First International Humane Conference in America, which is being held in Washington this week. An actual size cross section of the car is being shown, together with various drawings.

The most important feature of the exhibit is a minature model of the car, so made that the interior can be inspected. This model is five feet long and a little over one foot wide; it is one foot seven inches high. The model and other exhibits show in detail the salient features of the car, such as rounded edges of all interior wooden parts, rounded bolts, tight fitting doors, and other provisions for the protection of stock against injury while in transit.

In addition to the exhibit it is making at the Humane Conference, the Pennsylvania Railroad is distributing pamphlets giving a history of the development of its Standard Steel Underframe Live Stock Car. This pamphlet, which is being sent broadcast throughout the country, contains photographs of the interior of the car, showing how all sharp corners have been eliminated.

The experiments, which the Pennsylvania railroad has been making in the construction of this live-stock car, have been going on for some 20 years, and the equipment which is now being exhibited at the Humane Conference has been examined by railroad men, veterinarians, live stock shippers and societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals, and has been pronounced a most admirable car for the transportation of live stock.

In Memoriam.

At a regular meeting of Branch 42, Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our worthy brother, Felix McArdle, a member of this association, Be it therefore

Resolved, That in the death of Brother McArdle the branch has lost a faithful member, his wife a devoted husband and his children a loving father;

Resolved, That we extend to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in their great loss and hope that we may meet him in a better and happier life beyond;

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our association, a copy be transmitted to the family of our deceased brother and the charter be draped in black for a period of thirty days.

Renewed testimony; tested by time.

Mrs. John Kerns, 916 Aetna street, Connellsville, Pa., says: "I can still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy of great merit. The very best results have been obtained from the use of this remedy in our family for backache and kidney trouble. I gave a public statement recommending Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago and since that time I have had no reason to change my opinion of this remedy. The relief obtained when Doans Kidney Pills were first used was so great that we would not now be without this remedy in the house. I am glad to confirm my former statement in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Making Friends By Making Mistakes!

That's an odd headline, but it is quite true. We make mistakes, not very frequently but still we do make mistakes. We are only human.

Some times we do not hear of these mistakes, because the customer neglects to tell us. That is an injustice to us.

When we do hear of some mistake we've made, we proceed to "make good" in such a manner that the customer is impressed for all time with our desire to give the utmost satisfaction.

Now then if we (who are experts) make mistakes, how much more liable are you to make them in buying furniture? Think that over a bit and you will realize the extreme advisability of exercising care and caution in the selection of everything needed for your home.

Consult with us. Let us make suggestions. If you like what we suggest, well and good. If you don't, then try something else. Always remember the one Big Fact that we carry the highest class goods in the world but that our prices are no higher than you must pay elsewhere for vastly inferior qualities.

We minimize the chance of making mistakes. And if once out of a thousand times we do go wrong, we then practise "the gentle art of making good" and cement your friendship by doing so.

Try "the Aaron way" of equipping your home and get the most good for the money you expend.

RAILROADS NEED MORE RELIEF

Says President Brown of New York Central at Rate Hearing.

THEIR PROSPERITY IN DANGER

President Brown Says Investors of Europe Needs Convincing That Government Will Allow Advances in Freight Rates.

Washington, Oct. 15.—American railroads must rehabilitate their credit if they are to prosper, and in order to do so they must secure larger revenue, according to President Brown of the New York Central system, who continued his testimony before the interstate commerce commission in connection with the reasonableness of the proposed increased freight rates.

"If this commission would grant this increase," said Mr. Brown, "it would convince the investors in Europe that the government of the United States was disposed to allow freight rate advances as often as they become necessary to the welfare of American railways.

Would Convince Europeans.

"That is a most important consideration," continued Mr. Brown. "The indication of a policy on the part of the commission which such an act would establish would remove the doubt now existing as to the investment situation in America."

"Are the Europeans more concerned over the future possibilities, or over the present earning status of the American railroads?" asked Commissioner Lane.

"I think they are concerned over both, but especially anxious to know what will be the disposition of the commission with regard to future necessities for increases in freight rates," replied Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown was asked by Attorney Lyon whether he thought it would be a good thing for the New York Central to put a dollar of surplus into improvements for every dollar disbursed as dividends. Mr. Brown replied:

Answers Attorney's Question.

"I think it would be very desirable if that policy could be applied to the New York Central. As a matter of fact the New York Central never has been able to approach the record of the Pennsylvania railroad in that respect, nor have we been able to do as well as President Willard said the Baltimore and Ohio had done, that is setting side fifty cents for improvements for every dollar of dividends."

Replying to a question of Commissioner Lane, Mr. Brown gave it as his opinion that even if wages had not been increased materially by the New York Central it would have been necessary to uplift freight rates.

"I do not think," he added, "that it is possible to maintain our credit and money necessary to make improvements without these proposed increases."

INCREASED CHEERFULNESS

Noted by Dun's Review of Trade Conditions This Week.

New York, Oct. 15.—Dun's Review of Trade says today:

"The better feeling noted last week is confirmed by this week's reports and although important elections are impending and the trade recession to a point considerably below normal continues, yet there are signs of largely increased cheerfulness and some increased activity.

"This is disclosed much less in the iron and steel trade than in the dry goods—the former moves slowly with a reduced production, but in dry goods there is a perceptible expansion in demand in all branches."

THOSE CURIOUS COCKNEYS

4,000 Londoners Seek Admittance to Courtroom During Crippen Trial.

London, Oct. 15.—More than 4,000 persons have already written to the authorities asking for tickets of admission to the trial of Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, who is accused of the murder of his wife, the American actress known as Belle Elmore, which will begin at the Old Bailey next Tuesday.

There are about 130 seats in the courtroom and when indisputable claims are satisfied about seventy of them will be available for the general public.

Learn About Irrigation and the Enormous Productive Power of Irrigated Land!

It's a marvelous story—so wonderful that you must see facts and figures before you can even comprehend it. Yet it's all true. Irrigation is rapidly turning the "great West" into the garden spot of the world. Every river, stream and ditch that carries moisture to western acres is setting loose a store of fertility practically inexhaustible. A few acres of irrigated land, with attendant water rights, will yield vastly greater profits than a large eastern farm. Especially is this true of irrigated land in California and Idaho. Everything that grows anywhere grows in these favored spots. Nature works for the happy rancher the whole year round. Bumper crops of oranges, lemons, grapes, peaches, small fruits, cereals and "truck," in natural succession follow each other, or grow together, and keep the rancher's pocket bulging with profits twelve months in the year. We could fill this whole space with the story of western irrigated land and not tell half—but, if it interests you—if you want a better chance than you're getting now—come to our booth at the big land show in Pittsburgh, October 17th to 29th, and let us tell the rest of the story.

Stereopticon Views

Just to clinch what we're saying about our western irrigation projects, we have arranged for a most interesting stereopticon lecture by Colonel P. E. Holp. This will be too good to miss. It will give you a better idea of the tremendous crops and profits to be had from irrigated land in California and Idaho than columns of cold type can possibly do.

You will see here in actual photographs—farms, homes, crops and conditions just as they are to-day in this, the richest empire of the west.

A Relief Map of California

And besides the really wonderful stereopticon views and interesting lecture, we have also a great relief map of the whole state of California, showing mountain ranges, lakes, rivers, the Yosemite Valley and all the other marvelous physical features of this most wonderful state in the Union. On it you can locate at a glance our great Sacramento Irrigation Project and get a clear idea of its natural advantages and proximity to the best markets in the state.

Returns of 40 to 400 Dollars per Acre

This great tract of enormously rich land (hundreds of thousands of acres) in the beautiful Sacramento Valley and our Twin Falls tract in Idaho are the two largest public and private irrigation enterprises in the country. The crops that can be grown on these lands are almost endless in variety. A few acres on either tract offers to the tired-out and discouraged eastern farmer a return for his labor vastly in excess of anything he has ever dreamed of. $40 to $400 per acre is the common thing, not the exception.

Free Literature at Our Office

At our office, 345 Fourth Ave., we constantly carry a mass of beautiful descriptive literature for free distribution that is well worth your reading.

California is the land of sunshine—the land of promise—the land of the future! Thousands of settlers are leaving worn-out eastern farms, or worrying, wearing toil at desk and bench, and are taking refuge in these lands of plenty. There is room for you too. This is a project you should know about. Call at our booth at the big Pittsburgh Land Show or—still better—make our offices your headquarters while in Pittsburgh. We'll extend you every courtesy and maybe we can show you a way to do better financially than you're now doing.

INDICTMENT IN COAL CASES.

Conspiracy to Defraud Government Charged Against Seven.

Washington, Oct. 15.—After long months of inquiry on the part of officials working under the direction of R. A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, the government has secured indictments against men who are charged with conspiracy to defraud in connection with valuable coal lands in Alaska.

The indictments were returned by the federal grand jury sitting at Seattle. Announcement to this effect was made at the interior department following the return of Secretary Ballinger to Washington.

The men indicted are C. F. Munday, A. H. Stracy, Archie W. Shields and E. E. Seigler, who are identified with what is known as the English or Stracy group; also Cornelius Christopher, George Simmonds and Mortimer Sweeny, all of whom have been active with the Christopher-Simmonds group, which has been diligent in its efforts to acquire coal lands in Alaska.

The men named are charged with violations of the law that prohibits the acquisition of public lands through the medium of "dummy entrymen."

TAFT CLOSES UP SHOP

Executive Offices at Beverly Dismantled Today.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 15.—President Taft will have no more business callers at Beverly. Today was devoted to golf and on Monday the president will leave for New York, arriving there at about 6 o'clock in the evening.

He will remain in New York until Wednesday night, when he will return to Washington for the fall and winter.

The executive offices will be dismantled today.

Trespasser Shoots Railroad Agent.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Special Agent A. Lenze of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway was shot and wounded by an unknown negro who was resisting arrest. Lenze dragged the negro from a train. The negro made a dash for the hills south of the city and escaped.

Death Comes as Relief.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Death came as a relief to Miss Josephine Bartlett, a well known actress, at the Baptist hospital. She suffered a year from injuries sustained in New York when she was struck by an automobile.

WORLD'S STEEL MAGNATES MEET.

Revolution of Important Parts of Industry May Develop.

SESSIONS HELD IN SECRET

Stability of Prices Discussed by Representatives at New York Hotel. Common Policy to Maintain Reasonable Prices.

New York, Oct. 15.—Steel makers from many parts of the world met at the Waldorf-Astoria in attendance at the first general meeting of the American Iron and Steel institute.

No such gathering of steel makers has ever taken place before in this country and from it results may flow which will revolutionize that gigantic industry in some of its important branches.

How to Maintain Prices.

Stability of prices was perhaps the most important topic discussed by these men at their first meeting with the representatives of the industry in this country. Some of the men advanced the idea that the time had come in the industry when steel makers should adopt a common policy in seeking to maintain fair prices even to the extent of curtailing production if this should be found necessary.

Judge Gary of the United States Steel corporation was one of those who pleaded for a reduction of output rather than a reduction of prices at times when consumers were not willing to pay prices however reasonable. This could only be done, Judge Gary pointed out, by the cheerful and continued co-operation of the members of the new institute.

Public Barred From Sessions.

As might be expected the meeting was not open to the public and only a synopsis of the proceedings were given out. It was decided in this respect to conform with the rules of the British institute, whose meetings are private in order that, as Mr. Schwab expressed it, there should be greater freedom of discussion.

Members of the institute will make an excursion around the large railroad terminals and industrial plants of this city today and on Sunday evening will start on a tour of the country's big steel plants.

EXONERATES HER HUSBAND

Woman Dying of Burns Declares She Set Fire to Her Garments.

Beaver Falls, Pa., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Anthony Franks, aged twenty-five years, who was burned and whose husband is in jail pending an investigation, has exonerated the man. The woman is at the Providence hospital and will die.

She told the police and a notary public that after differences with her husband she poured oil on her clothing and set fire to the garments. Mrs. Franks told the police that she did not care to live if she could not live amicably with her husband.

WILKES-BARRE, PA., A LOSER

Cannot Copyright City Name; Decision by Washington Authority.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 15.—This city's effort to have its name copyrighted has failed, owing to the decision of the register of copyrights in Washington that the city has no legal right to the sole and exclusive possession of its name. The register of copyrights says in his decision:

"In reply to your letter of Oct. 4 we beg to say we cannot possibly think of any way in which you could secure for the city of Wilkes-Barre the exclusive right to its name by any proceedings under the copyright law."

KEEN EYES FOR STARS

Women Observers at Harvard Now Have Thirteen to Their Credit.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Fleming, the woman astronomer at Harvard college observatory, has discovered another new star, making thirteen that have been picked out by the three women observers who have been connected with the institution during the past twenty-five years.

Only sixteen new stars have been found in that period.

Rosalie Ends Life Under Freight.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 15.—Eighteen-year-old Rosalie Patti deliberately laid down before a fast freight train and her body was horribly mangled. The girl had been corrected by her father and is thought to have brooded over the punishment until she determined to end her life.

GREATER PITTSBURG.

Movement Launched to Extend the Smoky City's Boundary.

Pittsburg, Oct. 15.—"Make the community of Pittsburg the city of Pittsburg."

This is a slogan of a campaign launched by Mayor William A. Magee at a meeting and luncheon of the chamber of commerce in the Fort Pitt hotel.

The plan is for the chamber of commerce to take the lead in a campaign of education to show the people of Pittsburg and contiguous boroughs and townships the necessity of immediate consolidation of the whole Pittsburg community under one government.

When the next legislature convenes a bill will be introduced authorizing the submission of the new greater city proposition to the voters.

CAR HITS AUTO; FOUR DIE

Machine Carrying Pottery Men Run Down at Beloit, O.

Sebring, O., Oct. 15.—Four men in an automobile were instantly killed when their machine was struck by a freight car on the Stark Electric interurban company line at Beloit, two miles from here.

The dead: Charles J. Albright, aged thirty-five years, general manager of the Limoges China company; George Frederick, aged thirty-two years; Joseph Smedkin, aged thirty-five years; John Derby, aged thirty-three years.

All the victims were residents of Sebring, where the pottery is located, and were on their way to East Liverpool, O., to buy supplies.

CHAPTER XXIV.

A PROTEGE OF MISS DEARMER'S.

LESLEY DEARMER and her aunt were staying that night at Asheville with their friends, and next morning everything was arranged. Loveland explained that in a fortnight at least he would certainly be released from the bondage of his embarrassments, therefore he would take service as Mr. Cremer's chauffeur only for that length of time, thus giving his employers a chance to find a good man for a permanent engagement. He received from Lesley the two weeks' wages in advance, and the $50—a far larger amount than he had touched since landing—seemed to him a respectable sum. Ten dollars he kept for his own necessities, and the rest he divided among the members of the broken company.

"I WANT A LITTLE TALK WITH YOU."

The profits from the three performances of "Lord Bob" paid the hotel bills for all and left a few dollars over. Pumped together there was enough to take Lillie de Lisle, Ed Blaney, Miss St. Clare and the Winters to Chicago, leaving something to tide each one through a week or two of idleness.

Lillie, Ed and Miss St. Clare could hardly express their gratitude to Loveland, and the words they said to him warmed his heart as it had never been warmed before. There was a queer kind of happiness in sacrificing himself for others that came as an absolutely new sensation to Val.

Lillie was in touch with Bill again; therefore, in spite of the uncertain future, she was not unhappy. She had written to Bill the day after Loveland joined the company, had sent him a photograph of herself and a collar for Shakespeare, the best that could be bought for 50 cents in Modunk. Bill had answered to Asheville, and, though neither had any prospects, both had unlimited hope now that they were sure of the love and loyalty which had outlived discouragements, absence and unprosperous years. Lillie was going to Chicago, and Chicago might have something to offer. By and by—who could tell?—she and Bill, "the best man she ever knew," might come together. Meanwhile they could go on loving each other.

The girl went off buoyed up with hope, and Ed Blaney had friends in Chicago. He would rest a little and be "all right," he said to Val, shaking hands over and over again in the moment of goodby.

Hill Farm, as Mrs. Loveland's place was called, lay in a charming country not far from Louisville, and at noon of the day after her surprise visit to the theater Miss Dearmer's newly appointed chauffeur was waiting for his employer at the Asheville station.

In his hand was the battered bag which had called forth the contempt of Jack Jacobus, and in his heart were shame, rebellion, jealousy and joy, mingled with several other emotions, none of which he could have defined—least of all the joy.

He reminded himself that there could now be no possible satisfaction in his nearness to Lesley. She did not like him enough to believe in him.

He had to wait for some time on the platform before Miss Dearmer appeared, and then she came toward him alone.

"Auntie is saying goodby to our Asheville friends," she explained. "I—they're not going to stop with us till the train goes. I thought for several reasons it would be better not, and they quite understand. Before you meet my aunt I want a little talk with you. I haven't told her or the others that you—that there's any connection between you and the newspaper story about the marquis and his adventures. I said I'd met you before and was sorry to find now that you'd had misfortunes, losing your money and other things, that had put you into an uncomfortable position. Auntie was in her stateroom on board ship till the last morning, and then I didn't point you out to her. If she saw you at all she didn't notice you particularly, and, besides, she's very nearsighted. She knows only that you're Mr. Gordon and that to help you a little I've asked you to act as chauffeur for a short time till you can get something better."

"And till Mr. Cremer can get some one better," Loveland capped her words.

"You have to be tried first," smiled the girl. "And I mean you to be a success—a great success. Now I'm going to auntie. I think we'd better travel in different cars, for she hasn't quite got used yet to the idea of a gentleman chauffeur."

With that the girl pressed a railway ticket into his hand, and he was left, not knowing whether he were more inclined to laughter or to cursing.

The Hill Farm might almost have been an English farm, with its rambling red brick house, apparently of the Georgian period, its square paned windows and its pillared porch draped with a tangle of grapevine and Virginia creeper.

Val arrived only a few minutes later than Lesley and Mrs. Loveland, and the girl was waiting for him in the open doorway when his hack drove up.

"This is a big old house," said Lesley, coming out into the porch—"at least it's old for America. It's stood for about 150 years, and there's lots of room in it. You will live in the west wing. In a few minutes Uncle Wally will show you where to go. Here, Uncle Wally, take Mr. Gordon's bag."

There was no contempt either for the bag or its owner on the mild old face of the gray headed negro, who was as perfect had well trained a servant in his way as any butler in an English country house. Evidently he, too, had been told that this was a "gentleman chauffeur," to be treated like a gentleman. And Loveland was grateful to his hostess, feeling a sudden impulse toward happiness until, with a shock, he remembered Sidney Cremer.

"When will Mr. Cremer arrive?" he asked Lesley as they walked together across a sloping lawn toward the stables.

"Oh, Sidney's very much at home here," she answered lightly. "You may see him at any time. Meanwhile you won't mind driving the car for me, will you?"

"I think you know whether I'll mind that or not," said Loveland almost more to himself than to the girl. "If only there were no Sidney Cremer"—

"I have an idea you won't dislike Sidney when you meet him," Lesley said kindly.

"A man's chauffeur has no right to an opinion about him—at least that's what I used to think myself. Cremer must be very rich," grumbled Loveland, apparently apropos of nothing.

"Sidney makes a good deal of money out of novels and plays—at least it seems a good deal to me, but maybe it wouldn't to you. Perhaps Sidney's earnings amount to about twelve or fifteen thousand of your English pounds a year, and he's saved quite a lot, too, for he's been popular as a playwright and novelist in America and England for several years now."

"By Jove!" exclaimed Loveland. "What a lucky beggar!"

"That just expresses it—a 'lucky beggar'—for he was almost a beggar at the time he made his first success."

"Shall you be married soon?"

Lesley smiled, and her dimples twinkled. "It isn't decided yet. But I dare say it will be soon. Now, I suppose with the grand ideas you used to talk to me about, £12,000 or £15,000 a year and a few loose thousands lying around, would seem like shabby genteel poverty to you."

"Don't hit a man when he's down," said Loveland. "If I had only half as much as Mr. Cremer I could do the things I want most to do."

"What are they?" asked Lesley.

"Nowadays the things I feel I should like most to do are to restore our poor old tumbled down home and get rid of my debts."

"You say 'nowadays.' Have you changed your mind lately?"

"I've changed almost everything except these everlasting tweeds! I know, of course, that my affairs will come right in one way presently. I shall get back to England before my leave's up, but I shan't go back the same man. I've lost the chance of all that's the best worth having, if I ever could have had such a chance."

"You're too young to give up hope, almost as young as Sidney Cremer."

"What! He's younger than I am?"

"Sidney is twenty-three."

"Once you said you didn't like men under twenty-six, they seemed so raw."

"I ought to be flattered that you should remember my sayings of 'once.' You see, though, Sidney's quite different from—other men, especially to me. But here we are at the stables. We'll talk about Sidney's car instead of Sidney."

"Just one question first!" exclaimed Loveland, stopping short in front of the old fashioned but neatly kept stables and spacious southern barn. "I know I haven't any right to ask it, but were you engaged to Cremer when we crossed together on the Mauretania?"

"WERE YOU ENGAGED TO CREMER?"

"My relations with Sidney were then exactly what they are now," replied the girl, with a pretty primness that made her mouth look as if she had just said "prunes, prisms, propriety."

His last hope gone—since Lesley had not accepted Cremer out of pique—Loveland was silenced.

CHAPTER XXV.

SIDNEY CREMER'S CHAUFFEUR.

NO letter was forwarded to the Hill Farm from the theater at Bonnerstown for the very good reason that Miss Moon, having found one for Mr. P. Gordon, opened, read and out of sheer spite destroyed it, with its several inclosures.

The envelope was addressed in Bill Willing's inappropriately beautiful handwriting, and there was a short note from him saying that he had great pleasure in inclosing two letters just arrived from England; also that he sent his "undying love to Lillie de Lisle."

One of the English letters blazed to the actress' dazzled eyes with a gilded coronet and began: "My Own Darling Val—How can you ever forgive me for not answering your poor, dear cablegram? But of course I thought it was from that horrible wretch Foxham. It seems now he sold your ticket for the Baltic and sailed for Australia. All sorts of reports came in about him directly after you must have sailed, and I learn now that even before you left Janica Harborough suspected him because of some forged check he'd heard of—I'm really too confused and upset to remember how or when or what. But in any case it was most remiss of James not to have instantly warned you against the man, even on the slightest suspicion."

This was only the beginning of the coroneted letter, which had no paragraphs and very few punctuations. Jealous still, Miss Moon was relieved to see that the signature was "Your Adoring Mother," but she was at a loss to understand allusions to duchesses and other persons of title. Indeed, it would have appeared to her like a "property" letter to be read on the stage by an aristocratic hero of melodrama had it not been for the postoffice order for $300, which it contained. This she threw into the fire that Gordon might not benefit by it.

The other letter inclosed had no coronet and was signed "Your affectionate cousin, Betty." At the end was a postscript in a different hand, which seemed somehow to suit the rather dashing signature—"Jim."

This second letter was even more difficult than the first for an uninitiated person to understand, and it irritated Miss Moon to a high pitch of nervousness.

"It was partly a joke and partly earnest, but it had a good motive," wrote Betty. "I guessed the morning your really very conceited letter about the New York introductions came that Jim had something quaint up his sleeve to spring upon you when you'd arrived in America, but I didn't know what. To tell the truth, Val, I was even more disgusted than Jim by your cool way of assuming that you had only to show yourself to pick and choose among all the nicest as well as richest girls. I should have loved to box your ears, and I said, 'Of course we won't give him any letters, and I'll tell him just what we think of him; then maybe he won't go.' But Jim said: 'Yes, we will give him the letters, and he shall go. We may find another way of teaching him a lesson, a way that will do him good if he's worth being done good to.'

"That was all, and as Jim didn't refer to the subject again after we posted the letters of introduction the conversation slipped my mind. I didn't think any more about it until weird things began to be copied into London papers from New York ones and your mother wired Jim to ask what, if anything, could be done to punish Foxham. You see, she thought you were on the Baltic.

"Jim soothed all her worries, so you needn't be anxious about her, as of course you would if you thought she'd been alarmed. When I saw paragraphs in the papers I talked to Jim, and it was only then that he told me what he'd done, how it was all his fault really, and he was very sorry, because everything had turned out a lot worse for you than he'd ever dreamed of wanting it to be. Fate took a hand in the game and played it for all it was worth," Jim said.

"It seems that Foxham, your man, asked Jim to cash a check signed by you one night not long ago. Don't you remember when he and I were at Bathlemead and you came down for Saturday to Monday? Jim suspected something wrong, but wouldn't speak to you till he'd made sure, because that wouldn't have been fair, and Foxham was such an invaluable valet. A few days later, when Jim was making inquiries about the man, he found out that the horrid creature had actually impersonated you at two or three hotels and run up bills in your name. It was the very evening before your letter about America came that Jim got the first part of this information, and day by day more kept coming in up to the time when we heard Foxham had given you notice. All along Jim was thinking out the idea of that lesson for you—the joke that was to be half in earnest—and then when Mr. Vanderpot couldn't sail in the Mauretania the whole plan was mapped out without a word being said, even to me.

"Of course I want to assure you again, and Jim will write a postscript, that he meant nothing worse to happen to you than a disappointment and a blow to your conceit. He telegraphed to several of the people to whom you had letters, saying that if a person turned up calling himself by your name before the Baltic landed they'd better wait and make sure before being nice to you that you weren't your own absconding valet sailing under false colors. He didn't say it wouldn't be you, and he supposed that his friends would simply hang back for a few days, making no sign, thus giving you to think that you weren't as important in America as you'd fancied. He imagined, too, that the heiress business wouldn't come off quite as easily as you expected and that altogether you might be a little sobered down. As for your trouble with the bank, we know now that this is what happened: It turns out that Henry van Cotter has lately become a partner in the bank which corresponds with yours in London, and, having got Jim's wire about the valet probably at the same time when instructions arrived from the London and Southern, naturally he told his people to be prepared and not to pay. How could Jim think of such a thing happening or that Mr. van Cotter and the others would run about gossiping of what he told them as a mere supposition? It must have been too dreadful for you at the hotel. And, as for that Mr. Milton, I'm sure he's a horror.

"Then it was another contretemps that neither Jim nor I saw the newspapers at first. Of course the minute Jim knew what had been going on he wired everywhere and wrote long letters of explanation, too (a little earlier than he'd originally meant), to put an end to the misunderstanding he'd set in motion. But meanwhile you'd disappeared from New York. Poor dear, my heart quite bleeds for you! And yet—and yet—I wonder if all that you've gone through is entirely a matter of regret?"

It was here, after the "Affectionate Cousin Betty" signature, that the other handwriting began.

"I wonder too! I want to know what you think about it. Now it's all explained and you see just where and how much I'm to blame for what's past you may or may not be inclined to forgive me for trying to play Providence that good might come of evil. But if there is anything which you don't regret perhaps you'll partly understand—yourself and me. Anyhow, I apologize, having now done my best to atone, in case you want to go back to New York in a blaze of glory and be made a lion of. Meanwhile I await your verdict and am, as the writers of anonymous letters are supposed to sign themselves, 'your friend and well-wisher,' Jim."

Again fate had "taken a hand in the game" and used Miss Moon as catspaw. Into the fire in her bedroom at Bonnerstown went all those elaborate explanations, and Loveland did not dream that he had only to communicate with the bank in New York to receive apologies and a sum of money which, after his vicissitudes, would have seemed a fortune. He had not even a prophetic "pricking in his thumbs" while his mother's postoffice order for $300 (£60) gayly burned in a Bonnerstown stove. He had no suspicion that New York society or an important section of it was wearing sackcloth and ashes on his account; neither did he know that Lesley Dearmer, whether believing him a genuine article or not, had sent him an anonymous donation which lay unclaimed at the Waldorf-Astoria.

In the house he and Miss Dearmer had no intercourse, and he did not even know what the girl's daily occupations were or what visitors she saw. But at least three hours out of every twenty-four gave her to him as an intimate companion, near in mind and body. Therefore until the hateful Cremer should fall out of a clear sky Val was not eager for home news which would leave no excuse for lingering at this old homestead in the blue grass country.

It seemed to Val that Lesley was always happy, and because she was happy herself she could not bear to see others sad or unfortunate. Though she asked no questions about her chauffeur's English past, she showed frank interest in his American experiences. She led him on as they spun through the country side by side to talk of Bill Willing, of Lillie de Lisle, of Ed Blaney and even of Isidora, the almond eyed.

Too delicate minded to put her suspicions into words, Lesley contrived tactfully to pluck from Loveland some scanty information concerning Miss Alexander's semi-engagement to the Jewish commercial traveler.

"She'll never marry him," the girl announced authoritatively.

"I wish I could think you were right," said Loveland. "Poor Isidora has a warm, generous heart, and it would be a beastly shame to waste her on the oily creature."

"When I first knew you it wouldn't have occurred to you that the affairs of a common little person like that might be worth bothering about," exclaimed Lesley. "But now I believe you're really interested."

"I really am," admitted Val. "I hope that doesn't disgust you?"

"Exactly the other way," Lesley assured him. "But Isidora won't marry the Cohen man after all that's happened. She won't marry any one for a good long time."

"What makes you think so?" asked Loveland.

"Oh, because I'm a woman myself." And then she would say no more on that subject, but she talked eagerly of Bill Willing and his star.

"BUT MY LANE IS BLOCKED."

Sidney Cremer would play fairy godfather to the two, she said, speaking with that happy certainty of her lover's mind which invariably depressed and irritated Loveland.

There were numerous country companies "on the road" touring with Sidney's pieces in very good towns. Sidney would take "Mr. Gordon's" word for Lillie de Lisle's ability as a soubrette and would offer her a part shortly to be open owing to the marriage of the girl now playing it. As for "that perfect lamb of a Bill," a place should be found for him in the same company—that Lesley would promise—and they could marry at once.

"You had better wait and hear what Mr. Cremer says," suggested Loveland, almost bitterly, when Lesley had instructed him to write the good news at once to Lillie and Bill. Ed Blaney was also to be provided for, sent to a convalescent home and given hope for a chance as "property man" with one of Sidney's plays when he should be strong enough to go on tour again.

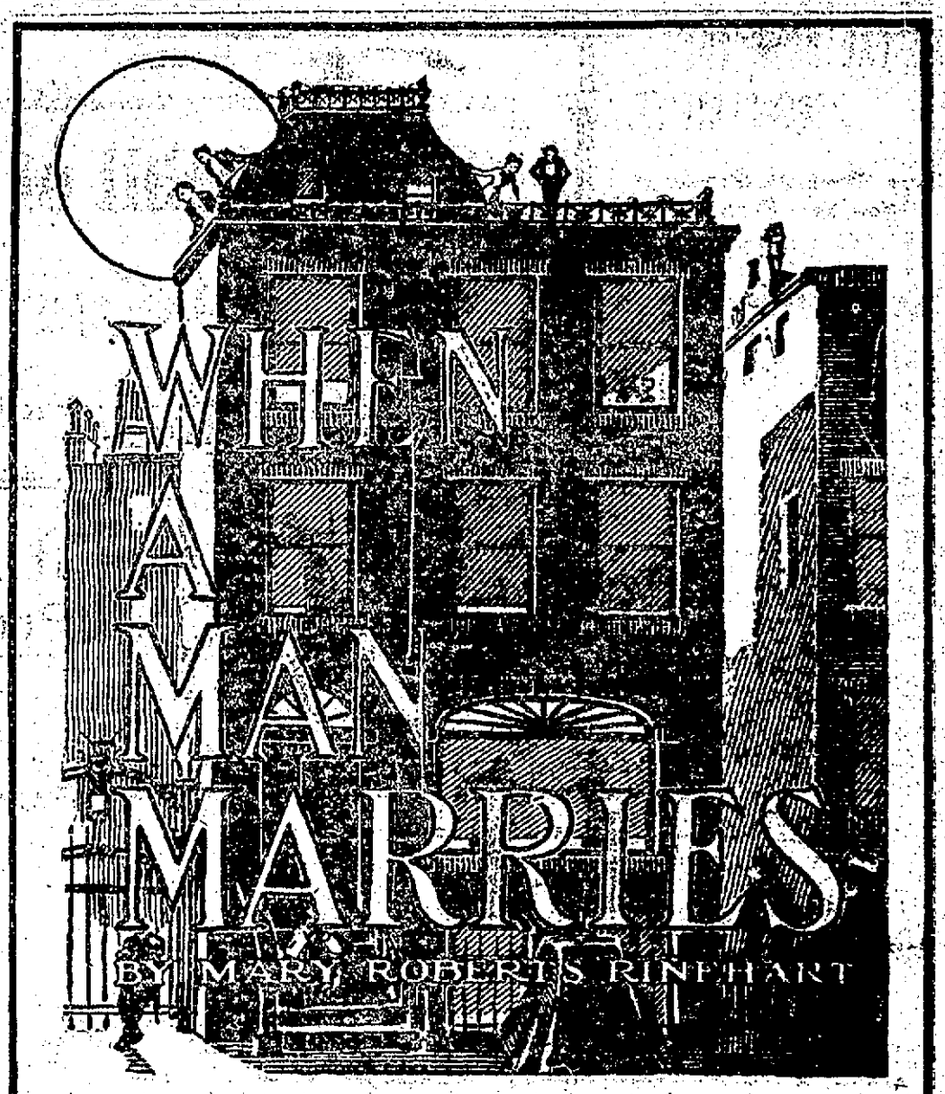
"Oh, Sidney and I always think alike. Haven't I told you that before?" was Lesley's answer. "There's no need to wait. I know all about Sidney's business. And I thought it would be a pleasure to you to write and be the means of making your friends happy."

"So it would if I were the means," muttered Loveland. "But I'm not. It's Mr. Sidney Cremer. Everything is Sidney Cremer, and he is everything."

"Some day I may remind you of that speech," said Lesley. Then she laughed in a mysterious little way she had. But she was determined that Loveland should write the letters she desired written, and, learning the lesson of unselfishness, he tried to rejoice in his friend's good luck.

"It's a long lane that has no turning," he said to himself as he sealed letters which would change the face of the world for three persons. "Their turning has come at last, and I'm glad. But my lane is blocked. Whatever happens, that brute Sidney Cremer will always stand at the end and bar my way out."

(To be Continued.)



WHEN a Man Marries involves a dinner party of young society folks quarantined by the illness of a Jap butler, a charming girl masquerading against her will as hostess, a fat artist in love with his own wife, the wife imprisoned in her own furnace room, a rich aunt with an all too candid tongue, a policeman acting as chief cook and bottle washer, the mysterious presence of an unknown thief, who takes necklaces but prefers bed-clothing, the—but to name the characters is only to take the edge off the spontaneity of their uproarious fun.

FATAL DUEL WITH NEGRO FUGITIVE.

Two Killed, Two Fatally and Five Seriously Injured.

BATTLE IN WEST VIRGINIA HILLS

Half Breed Negro Shoots Policeman of Huntingdon, W. Va., Who Attempts to Arrest Him, Then Escapes to the Hills.

Huntington, W. Va, Oct. 15.—Two killed, two fatally wounded and five seriously wounded was the price paid in human life for the capture of George, alias "Red," Johnson, a half breed negro, who shot and probably fatally wounded Detective George Lentz when the latter attempted to place him under arrest. Johnson shot seven members of the posse before being taken dead

The Dead:

George Riss, railroad brakeman, member of posse.

George Johnson, negro fugitive.

Fatally Wounded—Charles Hale, shot through arm, Ira Harrold, marshal, shot in back

Seriously Wounded—W. W. Lowe, policeman, shot in left side; Charles Stuart, shot in head; J. R Thomas, shot through hand; Will Hutchison, shot through arm; Ira Harrold, marshal, shot in leg.

Barricades Himself in Cave.

After fatally shooting Detective Lentz the negro escaped into the hills back of the city and, barricading himself in a cave in the face of a bluff, he defied arrest. A posse was organized in a short time and led by bloodhounds soon trailed the negro to the cliff. As soon as he saw the posse approaching the negro, who was armed with two Colts revolvers, opened fire. It was during this battle the men were killed The negro was shot dead

The body of the desperado was seized by an angry mob and dragged down the hill to the city limits. The members of the mob were bent on mutilating the body, but Chief Clingenpeel addressed the crowd and succeeded in pacifying it Later the body was removed to the morgue

HURRICANE SWEEPING COAST

After Hitting Cuba Gale Moves Across to Florida.

Tampa, Fla. Oct. 15—The first serious tropical storm of the year, after sweeping Cuba and doing minor damage to shipping in West Indian waters, is approaching the Florida gulf coast line with more or less promise of devastation to follow in its wake

All shipping within a radius of 500 miles of Key West was warned by wireless of the approaching hurricane and most of the vessels plying these waters have cast anchor in harbors.

Observations made by the local weather bureau indicate that the storm is following a path that will carry it north or northeastward of the gulf stream This will probably take it over the southern part of Florida.

Wireless Stations Disabled.

Key West, Fla, Oct. 15—The government wireless station here reported the West Indian hurricane centered west of Havana and moving with great intensity toward Progresso, Yucatan The width of the storm will extend from the Florida coast to the Mexican coast. All wireless stations in the path of the disturbance with the exception of the local government station, are disabled

SEES WET WORKER SLUGGED

Governor Marshall of Indiana Comes Near Mauling Assailant.

Dugger, Ind., Oct. 15.—Governor Marshall, speaking in this "blind tiger" town, was given an illustration of conditions which prevail when a temperance man, John M. Bridges, stepped up to him and asked him if he had the power to remove an officer who failed to do his duty, referring to failure to enforce the law against blind tigers.

Governor Marshall did not have a chance to answer in full, for Fred Stein an ex-saloonkeeper, who was just behind him, shot out a big fist near the governor's head and hit Bridges a terrific blow which brought blood

Angry at the outrage the governor turned on Stein and said: "You are a bad man and a coward I've a notion to whip you myself."

"Somebody arrest this man," the governor shouted. W. Riley Collins, a Linton attorney, placed Stein under arrest Stein pleaded guilty to assault and battery.

EASY PICKING FOR THIEVES

Postoffice at Sugar Grove, Pa., Robbed For Third Time.

Jamestown, N. Y, Oct. 15—The postoffice at Sugar Grove, Pa., was entered and about $20 in stamps and coin stolen The safe was blown open with explosives, the noise of which aroused the villagers and an armed posse chased the burglars to Pikes Rocks in the Allegheny foothills

This is the third time this postoffice has been robbed.

GREEN ROOM CHAT.

The Soisson Next Week.

Monday .....A Runaway Match
Thursday .....California Girls
Friday .....Y. M. C. A. Concert
Saturday .....East Lynne

Tonight winds up the week's engagement of the King Stock Company at the Soisson theatre and next week comes the calm before the storm of stellar attractions The offerings of the theatre for next week is of ordinary merit, just good enough to create an appetite for the three big attractions of the week following—and such a week that will be. "The Lottery Man," "Alias Jimmy Valentine" and "Madame X" are the attractions on Monday, Thursday and Saturday nights.

The King Stock Company, which closes its engagement this afternoon and evening, has been an excellent company and deserves the splendid patronage it enjoyed here. The company goes to Uniontown, where repertoire plays reap a rich harvest. Uniontown sure is a swell "rep" town

Comedy, burlesque, a musical concert and melodrama are the offerings at the Soisson next week. First of all comes "A Runaway Match," a farce comedy with interpolated musical numbers. This show is said to be one of the best moderated priced attractions on tour at the present time It is a roaring farce and advertised as such.

On Thursday night the "California Girls" are here with a burlesque aggregation The burlesque companies are gathering in the shekels at the Soisson this season. The "California Girls" make the third of the season, and they are just starting. A creditable olio is presented with this company, with plenty of gay bespangled chorus girls and the usual attractions of such shows.

The night following the first Y. M. C. A. concert will be given, the Whitney Brothers' Quartette being the opening attraction The Y. M. C. A. has booked a strong lecture course this year and a packed house is expected.

To close the week will come the old reliable "East Lynne," an attraction that has never yet failed to draw "East Lynne" is old as the hills but always gets a house. The story is pretty generally known and most of those who go to see the show have read the book. Those who haven't usually read it after seeing the performance

Week after next comes the big shows, three of them, with a burlesque sandwiched in between. The "High Flyers" are coming back on a return engagement. They will probably draw a big house

The three big shows of the week are all New York successes, and recent ones. They are still running on Broadway. Needless to say the shows are of sufficient recent origin to guarantee a strong company in each one

The playgoers can run the whole gamut of human emotions by taking in all three shows. First comes "The Lottery Man," a farce comedy. Then is "Alias Jimmy Valentine," based principally on a love story, with a stirring plot and great dramatic possibilities The third and last big show of the week is "Madame X," where emotional action o the highest grade holds sway.

"The Lottery Man" is the tale of a newspaper man badly in need of money. (They usually are) Seeing no way out of the difficulty, he holds a lottery, promising to marry the woman holding the lucky ticket. Then he meets the "only" girl. The situations that result are decidedly humorous It would be hard to chose the best of the three attractions.

STORIES OF THE PRESS AGENTS

THE SOISSON.

"A Runaway Match."

"A Runaway Match" is to appear in the Soisson theatre on Monday, Oct. 17 next. This play is one of the best ever seen here. It is a musical farce comedy of the up to date type. This means that besides the usual conglomeration of songs, dances, and specialty numbers, brought together without any attempt at rhyme or reason, there is a real story running through the piece. This does not interfere with the comedy situations in the least. On the contrary it brings them out the stronger. The original lay of the plot, the rapidity of the action, the amusing situations in which the different characters find themselves and which involve them in all sorts of endless trouble, go to make "A Runaway Match" the greatest farce comedy ever written.

"California Girls."

"A Breezy Affair" and "In Jungle Land," two big musical comedy burlesques will be introduced at the Soisson theatre by the California Girls Company, introducing a bevy of pretty girls and a host of clever comedians, introducing comedy, opera, burlesque, travesty and vaudeville features. The vaudeville features are as follows: Rose Lewis, flying trapeze, queen of the air; Ross and Ross, European novelty act; Ida Bell, dainty singing and dancing soubrette; Truehears, Dillon and Burke, eccentric comedy trio; Hazel Grant, comedienne, John non and Lambett, German comedians, and Mlle Carina & Co, Cleopatra dancer.

"East Lynne."

The annual visit of Joseph S. King's wonderful drama "East Lynne" which comes to the Soisson theatre Saturday, Oct. 22 for two performances, is taken from the novel by the same name, a story of a jealous woman, by a company of dramatic players.

MAY OPEN UP BIG SCANDAL

Light on Race Track Legislation Opposition Expected.

New York, Oct 15—Former State Senator Frank J Gardner, who was arrested in Scranton Thursday night at the request of District Attorney Whitman on a charge of attempting to bribe Otto G. Foelker, who at the time was a state senator, in the matter of the Hughes anti-race track gambling measures, was indicted by the grand jury of New York county.

Should Gardner be extradited and brought to trial here, as now seems probable, it is believed by the investigators that the whole matter of the opposition to the race track legislation will be opened $20 Shold Be the Price of These Women's Suits Instead of $15.

During July when the cloak and suit strike was at its worst in New York, a maker of good clothes for women moved his factory out of the strike zone and had his choice of several expert makers go with him. Predicting a long spell of idleness, this man figured that if he ran his plant even at a loss it would be better than being idle indefinitely. With the notable workers and the undeniably good fabrics, his business assumed such proportions at the model little plant that our big order placed soon after he began business anew, just arrived a week ago. From our knowledge of the suits carried by every store in town our price $15.00 is just $5.00 less than the best $20.00 suit in other stores.

At $15

The suit are of fancy stripe serge in black, blue, green and brown. Coats are well modeled and are lined with good satin skirts are of conventional width and have pleats in cluster effects

At $18

Are suits in black and blue only, from the same maker The garments are made of fine French serges, perfectly tailored, approved lengths and well lined Specially priced.

At $25

Are suits as far ahead of other $25 suits as are the $15 ones, From perfectly shaped shoulders to skirt hem the work of the artist tailor is evidenced. All fabrics, all sizes.
